About

Jackson loves the practice of law because he enjoys the everyday challenge of helping people solve problems big and small.

Jackson joined LBB with a breadth of experience, which he applies to representing the firm's clients across diverse industries. Before becoming an attorney, he worked in Business Affairs in the entertainment industry, where he was involved in producing multiple Emmy Award-winning TV series. He also worked in-house at one of the country's largest telecommunications companies, where he focused on real estate matters.
